Practising Short Essay Writing

Instructions for Short Essay Writing:

1. Each Student will write and submit two short essays and give an oral presentation on them under the guidance of Activity teacher.
2. Short essays should be written in formal English, elucidating learners' grasp over subject matter and language. Essay Topics will cover any of the texts prescribed in the semester along with one or more subjects/areas of student's choice, approved by Activity Teacher.
3. Essays may be of Inter-disciplinary nature.
4. In the end of semester, student will give oral presentation in the class. Evaluator, other teachers, and students will be allowed to ask questions after the presentation.
5. Plagiarism is using others' ideas and words without clearly acknowledging the source of that information. Avoid plagiarism and acknowledge all sources.
6. A student remains responsible for the academic honesty of work submitted in this course, even after the student has received a final course grade.
7. Ignorance of these standards will not be considered a valid excuse or defence. If a student is ever in doubt about an issue of academic honesty, he/she should consult his/her Activity teacher. The penalties for academic dishonesty can be very painful and can affect a student's entire educational experience at the University.

Practising Long Essay Writing

Instructions for Long Essay Writing:

1. Each Student will write and submit two long essays and give an oral presentation on them under the guidance of Activity teacher.
2. Long essays should be written in formal English, elucidating learners' grasp over subject and language. Essay Topics will cover any of the texts prescribed in the semester along with two or more subjects/areas of student's choice, approved by Activity Teacher.
3. Essays may be of Inter-disciplinary nature.
4. In the end of semester, student will give oral presentation in the class. Evaluator, other teachers, and students will be allowed to ask questions after the presentation.
5. Plagiarism is using others' ideas and words without clearly acknowledging the source of that information. Avoid plagiarism and acknowledge all sources.
6. A student remains responsible for the academic honesty of work submitted in this course, even after the student has received a final course grade.
7. Ignorance of these standards will not be considered a valid excuse or defence. If a student is ever in doubt about an issue of academic honesty, he/she should consult his/her Activity teacher. The penalties for academic dishonesty can be very painful and can affect a student's entire educational experience at the University.

Course Title: British Non-Fiction Prose
Paper Code: ENG204

4	1	0	4	100

Course Objective: This paper will introduce students to developments in the genre of the essay. This course is designed to make students understand and learn how the genre has adapted in order to address a variety of contemporary issues and become the vehicle for representing, personal experiences, moved into literary, social, cultural criticism and engaged in polemic and persuasion. The essays are to be read against their intellectual and socio-cultural background, noting the shift away from the elevated, literary, and classical style of earlier times to a general tendency towards factual and referential writing and a style more direct, immediate, and colloquial.

Learning Outcomes: It is expected that the course establishes the method of writing nonfiction prose as the most viable and straight method to present the facts and truth. Students will learn to analyze the plain and simple message better which sometimes proves to be more difficult than understanding and deciphering poetry and fiction.

Course Title: CINEMA AND LITERATURE

4	1	0	4	100

Paper Code: ENG313

Course Objective: Film Studies is the study of the production, aesthetics and history of the 20th century's most important visual medium—the cinema. Our primary interest through this course will be in reading—in this case, reading the language of cinema in order to improve our critical understanding of the way texts create meaning. It is clear from the course that the films included here are capable of developing the student's understanding of the literary texts as well.

Learning Outcomes: It is expected that the course establishes cinema's dependence on other arts forms viz. literature, painting, theatre and music, for its semiotic codes. This course educates in an inter-disciplinary mode, thus helps in broadening their understanding of various fields.
